Vn. Sr. Henriette Delille (1813-1862)

Born as a Creole Catholic in Louisiana, Henriette Delille was raised in the plaçage system where women of color would be pressured to marry a European man, though the men would often later marry a white American woman after being established. During her canonization process it was found that she had two children through this system while she was a teenager though they died young. This would in no way hurt her cause as the Archdiocese archivist noted, "When the second child died, she took a whole different course in life, to live and die for God."

And that she did. Finding that no religious orders would accept women of color she founded The Sisters of the Holy Family in 1842. The sisters tended to the sick and poor, and catechized both enslaved and free women of color. The only quote we have from Sister Delille is, "I believe in God. I hope in God. I love. I want to live and die for God."

We are hosting an event teaching about Sister Delille at St. Benedict the Moor next Sunday, September 20th after Mass and lunch.
